The most important clue was an envelope addressed to the man at the Palace hotel. It bore the London postmark, and was a very ordinary envelope, oblong in shape, and the address was written in a clear hand.

Gold turned to the Frenchman. "You are watching the hotel premises?" he said.

The other nodded. "I don't think there will be much of a result," Gold said. "The modus operandi is invariably the same. The forged notes are sent in small quantities in such an envelope as this to an agent. A reasonable time is given him to dispose of the forgeries. He remits a portion of the profits to headquarters, which is not necessarily the same place from whence the forged bills come, and then, as I say, after a reasonable interval, another small batch is sent him."

"And you think," asked the Frenchman, "that we may expect a further supply of notes to arrive at the hotel?"

"No, I don't," he said. "In the first place, every agent of the gang is watched by another agent unknown to him. The second agent is as well paid as the first. By this time the forger knows that Schriener has been arrested. You need not expect any further consignments."

Gold took up the envelope containing the forged American bills and again subjected one of them to a close scrutiny.

"Beautifully done," he said. He looked at it back and front. Something attracted his attention, and he peered earnestly at one corner of the bill.

"Excuse me," he said quickly, taking the note to the window.

Paris lay under grey skies and the light was bad, but he saw running from one side of the bill to another a curious line. It was printed in the same mauve ink which formed the background of the note, and was to all appearances part of the design.

"I want a strong light and a reading glass," he said, sharply.

The chief of the detective force switched on a powerful electric light over his desk and pulled down the shade till it nearly reached the table below. From his drawer he produced a powerful magnifying glass and handed it to Gold. The American detective spread the note on the desk and, holding it in its place, examined it.

They heard a whistle, saw the color mount to his cheeks, and his eyes blaze with excitement.

"Look," he said.

The Frenchman took the glass from him and uttered an exclamation, for the line was written in minute smallness engraved with extraordinary cunning and it ran:

"Verity Maple, 942, Crystal Palace Road, London, note numbers 687442 to 687453, milk."

They looked at each other, the two men.

"What does it mean?" asked the Frenchman, bewildered.

Gold was staring out of the window. He made no reply. He was repeating the message of the bill.

"There is one person in the world who can elucidate that message," he said. "She must be found."

"But who wrote it?" asked the chief of the police.

"Who else but Tom Maple?" Gold answered. "I think we are going to discover things."

GOING OFF THE HANDLE

Don't Try to Buy Potatoes at the Cigar Store

The apologetic little man pounded the counter. "I never dealt here before, and I'll never deal here again!" he shouted. "I'll try once more. Have you any tomatoes?"

"No, sir," replied the clerk. "What? Not even in cans?"

"Not even in bottles," the apologetic little man crushed his hat down further on his head and consulted the list in his hand.

"Have you any potatoes? Think carefully now."

"Not a potato in the place," said the clerk apologetically.

"Ye gods! Well, I'll see the end of this. Have you any sugar?"

"Not a grain, sir. Sorry, sir," the apologetic little man sat down on a stool and let his fist flutter to the floor.

"And you call this a grocery store?" he said tauntingly.

"No, sir," cooed the clerk mildly. "This is a cigar store."

The apologetic little man rolled off the stool in a fit—Indianapolis Star.

In Store

The regular trombone player of a Scottish orchestra was laid up with cold, and the conductor reluctantly accepted the services of a brass band amateur. He was a little doubtful, however, as to the suitability of his substitute.

After the first performance the new player asked the conductor how he had done.

The conductor replied that he had done pretty fairly, but that perhaps he would do better next night.

The newcomer, eyeing him gratefully, answered:

"Man, ye see the music is a' strange fae me the night, an' I'm no' jist shair o' 't yet, but ye wait till the morn's night, an' ye'll no hear ane o' these fiddles at a'!"—Weekly Telegraph.

The Plain of Curragh

The Curragh (a plain in the county of Kildare, Ireland) is a stretch of open ground of about 4,800 acres and serves the twin purposes of a large military camp and a race course, and in the latter capacity it has a reputation extending as far back as the first century, A.D., at which period, if records may be accepted, chariot races were a diversion which the people of the time permitted themselves.

The only dates from the Christian camp only dates from the Christian war. The plain of Curragh was often the scene of hostile engagements between early Irish kings, and it is St. Bridget who is credited with having received a grant of the district from the king of Leinster and with having turned it into a common. The young men of Kildare are often jokingly derided as "the boys of the short grass" in allusion to the herbage of the district of Curragh.—Westminster Gazette.

One of the Weather Men

When the weather men were at the station in Weymouth by the weather bureau a youth named Tom erected a signal pole on his mother's coal shed. He would daily hoist flags of his own in imitation of the ones of the government. This was done so persistently that Mary, a neighbor's daughter, soon adjusted her movements for the day to Tom's flags.

On the morning for a picnic she was rejoiced at the sight of a fair weather flag flying from Tom's flagpole. Her mother, being discouraged by the number of clouds, remarked, "You cannot depend on his flags, for he may not have followed the weather man's."

Mary, thinking them thoroughly reliable, said, "You can depend on them, mother, for Tom does his own guessing!"—National Monthly.

Appreciated

A patronizing young lord was seated opposite a famous scientist at a dinner one evening not long ago. During a lull in the conversation he adjusted his monocle, and leaned towards the scholar.

"Aw, I know, Mr. Jones," he drawled. "I passed your house this morning."

"Thank you," said Jones. "Thank you very much."—Harper's Magazine.

Greater Than Edison

"Who is that man who is being cheered by the crowds?" asked the stranger.

"That is John Smith," replied the bystander.

"What did he ever do?" asked the stranger.

"He invented the noiseless photograph," replied the bystander.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Comparative Values

A German peasant had just lost his faithful cow. His wife became so grieved over the loss that her heart was broken, and she, too, died. Scarcely was she buried when one of the neighbors came and offered his daughter, another his sister, and a third his niece, for a wife, whereupon the farmer remarked:

"Well, I can easily see that it is better to lose a wife than a cow in this town. As soon as my wife is dead a choice of half a dozen wives is offered me, and when my cow died they didn't offer me a single one."

The Only Way

Mrs. Pankhurst, as the "Majestic" sailed from New York, talked to a reporter about the comparative deceitfulness of men and women.

"Women," said the reporter, "are the more deceitful."

"No," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "men are the worse. Look at the way they deceive their wives."

"Do you claim," the reporter asked, "that men should never deceive their wives?"

Mrs. Pankhurst smiled, and tossed her head.

"Oh, no," she said. "How could the average man ever get a wife if he didn't deceive her?"

Where Dollars Originated

Joachimsthal, near Carlsbad, is historic as the birthplace of the original dollar. This was the silver gulden-groschen, coined in 1519 by order of Count Schlick from the metal of a recently opened mine, and it became known as the joachimsthaler, or "thaler" alone for short. Before 1600 the nimble English language had already made "dollar" of this. Thereafter this name was loosely used of all manner of coins, varying in value from 75 cents to $1.25 and belonging to all manner of countries, from Sweden to Japan. It was from the prevalence of the Spanish "dollar" in the British-American colonies at the time of their revolt that the modern "almighty dollar" was derived, while in modern English very recent slang has given the name of the crown piece.

Marks of the Beasts

On every side in the Malay wilds the traces of the beasts—which here live as secluded, as and from molestation as did their ancestors in pre-Adamite days—are visible on tree trunk, on beaten game path and on the yielding clay at the drinking places by the hurrying stream. Here a belt of mud nine feet from the ground shows that an elephant has rubbed his itching back against the rough bark of a tree, and, see, coarse hairs are still sticking in the hardened clay. There a long, sharp scratch repeated at regular intervals marks the passing of a rhinoceros. Here, again, is the pad mark of a tiger barely an hour old, and the platted tracks of deer of all sizes and varieties surround the deeply punched holes which are the footprints of an elephant.—Cornhill Magazine.

When Prince Victor of Hohenlohe-Langenburg was serving as a midshipman his vessel touched at a port where there was an English garrison, and the commanding officer came on board. He asked the captain whether there was not a Prince related to Queen Victoria among his officers.

"Ought I to call him Your Highness or Your Serene Highness?" he inquired.

"Please yourself," said the captain. "We always call him 'Sausage,' because he's a German."

Wilson-Barrett used to tell an amusing story against himself. At a time when he had a lot of workmen redecorating his private residence, thinking to give them a treat, he asked them to work one evening, they would like to have a drink and see him play in 'The Lights of London' at the Princess Theatre.

They said they did, and being complimentary tickets, all went on a Saturday night to see their employer's performance.

At the end of the week Barrett's eye caught sight of this item against such workman's name on the pay-sheet: "Saturday night. Four hours' overtime at Princess Theatre, eight shillings."

Minister (to whom Johnny has imparted the important and cheerful information that his father had not a set of false teeth)—And what will he do with the old set?

Johnny: "Oh, I suppose they'll cut 'em down an' make me wear 'em."—Fenny Magazine.

Nunky is Still There

"I told Uncle Simon that he was getting too old and feeble to attend to business."

"Did he take it kindly?"

"He threw me out of the office."

EYE STRAIN

Relieved by Quitting Tea and Coffee

Many cases of defective vision are caused by the habitual use of tea or coffee.

It is said that in Arabia where coffee is used in large quantities, many lose their eyesight at about fifty. Tea contains the same drug, caffeine, as coffee.

An Eastern woman writes to the point concerning eye trouble and coffee. She says:

"My son was for years troubled with his eyes. He tried several kinds of glasses without relief. The optician said there was a defect in his eyes which was hard to reach."

"He used to drink coffee, as we all did, and finally quit it and began to use Postum. That was three years ago and he has not had to wear glasses and has had no trouble with his eyes since."

"I was always fond of tea and coffee and finally became so nervous I could hardly sit still long enough to eat a meal. My heart was in such a condition I thought I might die at any time."

"Medicine did not give me relief and I was almost desperate. It was about this time we decided to quit coffee and use Postum, and have used it ever since. I am in perfect health. No trouble now with my heart and never felt better in my life."

"Postum has been a great blessing to us all, particularly to my son and myself."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pgs.

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

The Uncertain Sex

The car was crowded. The lady stood in the aisle—a fate that often attends ladies who board cars late in the afternoon.

The lady stood for some time and a considerable distance. Then a man arose and motioned her to his seat.

"Thank you," said the lady. "Not at all," said the man.

She didn't like the man's tone. It lacked warmth. It sounded like the voice of a man who had a secret reason for doing a reluctant kindness.

Why did he give up the seat? Did she look haggard, old, decrepit, or was it because she had appeared coquettish and flippant? Oh, if she only knew why the man had broken over the unwritten masculine rule and released his seat to her!

He had given her his seat because he was going to leave the car.

Such is that humorous melody we call life in a great city.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For Amateur Gardeners

The thing to plant in your hot bed is, of course, peppers.

To have cucumbers early, order them in time for the grocer's first delivery.

You can avoid backache from gardening by hiring a man to do the work.

A good place to put peas is next to the lamb chops.

To raise cabbages quickly, place them on the dumb waiter and pull the rope.

Seeds can now be purchased stuck on tapes. If you plant this kind, keep a careful lookout for tapeworms.

You may procure a few fresh looks to savor your spring salad by boring gopher holes in the roof during a shower.—Boston Transcript.

Clerk—Madam, I've let you see the green, pink, blue, yellow—

Lady—Well, while you're wasting time talking you could have shown me some white, brown, gray, cerise, lavender, and rose.

Only the uninformed endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Cure and get relief.

The superintendent of a Sunday school was illustrating for the children the text, "Arise and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt." Showing them a large picture, she asked:

"Now, isn't that splendid? Here is the mother. Here is the young child. There's Egypt in the distance."

The children, however, looked disappointed, and finally a little boy piped out:

"Teacher, where's the sea?"—Tit-Bits.

"I want a pair of button shoes for my wife."

"This way, sir. What kind do you want, sir?"

"Doesn't matter, just so they don't button in the back."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

She—"Tis true that I have broken the engagement and that I still have your ring; but do you know why I retain that ring?"—On the principle that to the victor belongs the spoils, I suppose.—Boston Transcript.

Keep the Mouth Clean

A noted medical authority asserts that our unclean mouths, diseased teeth and gums are a constant and insidious menace to health. They are a source of infection in the individual and a dangerous depot for the dissemination of disease to others.

Study Your Moods

People ruled by the mood of gloom attract to them gloomy things. The hopeful, confident and cheerful attract the elements of success. A man's front or back yard will advertise that man's ruling mood in the way it is kept.

A woman at home shows her state of mind in her dress. A slattern advertises the ruling mood of hopelessness, carelessness and lack of system. Rags, tatters and dirt are always in the mind before being on the body.

The thought that is most put out brings its corresponding visible element to crystallize about you as surely and literally as the visible bit of copper in solution attracts to it the invisible copper in that solution. Every thought of yours has a literal value to you in every possible way. In whatever mood you set your mind does your spirit receive of unseen substance in correspondence with that mood.—Prentice Mulford.

A Percentage

She loomed big in the eye of the public and occupied no inconsiderable space in the community.

Weighted in the balance, she was never found wanting nor could any accuse her of lightness.

Her husband declared that she was altogether too much for him.

Her banker found in her a woman of substance.

Her pastor deemed her a well rounded character.

Her admirers called her a great lady.

And the women all called her fat—Lippincott's.

"I don't know what to say. All the girls in my class read his letters."

"Well?"

"Eighteen of them think him a dear, and nineteen say he's a dub."—Washington Herald.

Kulcker—Something queer about Jones.

Bocker—Yes; he is the only man who can't explain the high cost of living.—Judge.

"That apron of yours, Julia, has a very official look."

"How do you mean?"

"So much red tape about it."—Baltimore American.

Three Months' Freedom

Gibbs—So you send your wife to the mountains for three months every summer. It's great to have money.

Dibbs—Yes. Money is certainly a great blessing.

Blended to Suit Hard Water

Hard water spoils most teas but not Red Rose. It is distinctive in this respect, being specially selected and blended to suit the hard water of the Prairie Provinces. No matter how hard the water it cannot destroy the rich strength and flavor of Red Rose Tea. This is one of the main reasons, perhaps, why Red Rose is such a favorite.

In 1 lb. and ½ lb. lead packages at 40c, 50c, and 60c.—also in tins of 3 lbs. and larger.

N.B.—Coffee users will find Red Rose Coffee as generously good as Red Rose Tea.

Plain John Smith

In Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Spaniards render it Juan Smithus; the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmidt; the French flatten it out into Jean Smeel, and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonloff Smittooski.

Plain John Smith gets into the lead trade in Canton he becomes Jovan Shimmitt; he clambers about Mount Hecla the Icelanders say he is Jahnne Smithsson; if he trades among the Tuscarorans he becomes Ton Qa Smithia; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmitt (divekai); should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jillon Shmiddy; when he goes to Mexico he is hooked as Jentli F'Smittit; if of classic turn and he lingers among Greek ruins, he turns to Ion Smitkon, and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as Yoe Seef.

Suffering

"They say that birds suffer when their feathers are removed by collectors."

"Not as much as women seem to suffer when feathers are removed by customs collectors."—Washington Star.

Tobacco in France

Twenty great factories work up the whole of the tobacco manufactured in France, and the right to retail is jealously guarded by the state. Permits to open tobacco shops are usually granted to widows of officers of the army and navy or of other employees of the government.—London Telegraph.

Wireless Messages

Wireless messages are sent much more easily at night than in the day (time and in winter than in summer, and the range under favorable conditions at midnight during midwinter is said to be several hundred per cent. better than at noon in midsummer).

Advocates of growing alfalfa with the assistance of irrigation are very happy just now. Many have already out a bumper first crop and are now busy with the water preparing for a second. The difference between irrigated and non-irrigated alfalfa is very marked this year.

Gleichen's Seventh Annual Exhibition promises to prove one of the most successful yet held here. All of the directors and the managers of the various classes are now doing their utmost to make their departments better than ever before and fully expect that the entries this year will far exceed past records. Next issue the CALL hopes to be able to publish the prize list which is now compiled and for which the secretary already has numerous applications.

Mrs. Alberta Hen has Troubles.

The Lacombe Globe is an advocate of high duty on eggs, and is very much afraid that eggs from China is the cause of our farmers getting low prices for Mrs. Hen's products in Alberta. Now, what's the matter with the Globe devising some method whereby Mrs. Alberta Hen could print the date on which she produces each egg. That surely would put the kibosh on Mrs. China Hen. Come to think of it Mrs. Alberta hen might help solve the great "yellow peril" problem, to say nothing of protection.

Western Canada Irrigation Convention.

The Western Canada Irrigation Association will hold its eighth annual convention at Penttice, B.C., from August 17th to 19th. The official call has been issued and the convention promises to be the most successful and interesting yet held by the association. There will be speakers of prominence present from all parts of Canada and from different points in the United States. Already a number have been selected to represent this district and it appears Alberta will be well represented.

British Subjects Rejected.

For six weeks a ship-load of Hindus, British subjects, some of them veterans of British wars, have been knocking at the doors at the coast asking admission to our country. We have refused them admission. We do not want them. We do not believe that they are adapted for a country with a climate somewhat rigorous. We want to keep this country a white country. They are objectionable, according to our standards. Canada has no delight in turning British subjects away from its doors, but it is a duty and it must be done.—Calgary Albertan.

Qualifications for an Orangeman.

Sunday, July 12th, was the great day among the members of the Orange Order and although there are a few members in this district there was no celebration of the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne in Gleichen.
A few years ago an attempt was made here to form a lodge of the order but it was finally abandoned.

By request of a local member of the order appended is given the essential qualifications for membership into the Orange order, and providing the precepts are lived up to the members of the order should certainly prove good citizens:

"An application for admission should have a sincere love and veneration for his Almighty Maker, productive of those lively and happy fruits—righteousness and obedience to His commands; a firm and steadfast faith in the Saviour of the world, convinced that He is the only mediator between a sinful creature and an offended Creator.
His disposition should be humane and compassionate, and his behavior kind and conciliatory; he should be an enemy to savage brutality and every species of un-Christian conduct; a lover of rational and improving society, faithfully regarding the Protestant religion, and sincerely desirous of propagating its precepts, i.e., charity and goodwill to all men. Zealous in promoting the honor, happiness and prosperity of his king and country; heartily desirous of success in these pursuits, yet convinced that God alone can grant them. He should have a hatred of cursing and of swearing and of taking the name of God in vain; he should use all opportunities of discouraging them among his brethren, and shun the society of all persons addicted to these shameful practices. Prudence should guide all his actions; temperance, sobriety and honesty direct his conduct; and the laudable objects of the association be the motives of his endeavors."

THE OLD QUESTION
INTERESTS THE WEST

More About Implement--Difference
in Retail Cash Prices Right
Here and in States

After the budget speech is made by the Finance Minister all the items have to be considered in connection of the whole when an opportunity is afforded to members to discuss the changes, more or less free from party bias.

On April 10th, in reply to the question of Mr. A. K. MacLean, member for Halifax, and Mr. W. W. Nesbitt, member from North Oxford, Hon. Mr.
Wells, Minister of Finance submitted
the following information with respect to freight charges:

"I have looked very carefully into the question of freight charges. For a period of over a year and a half or two years I have been giving very full and careful consideration to the question of the duty upon agricultural implements. In view of the statement made here by the other night by my hon.
friend from Antisholm (Mr. Turritt), with regard to the rates on binders
at Minneapolis, I desire to place upon "Hansard" for the information of the House, a statement as to the difference between the freight rates from Chicago to Canadian points and to American points opposite Canadian points, and from Toronto or Hamilton to points in the Northwest.

"I find that the freight charges upon an eight-foot binder are as follows:
Freight on Eight-foot Binder

From Chicago to--
Minneapolis.....	$ 2.50
Fargo, N.D. ....	1.19
Grand Forks, N.D. ....	9.16
Valley City, N.D. ....	10.14
St. Thomas, N.D. ....	10.14
Devils Lake, N.D. ....	11.21
St. John, N.D. ....	12.48
Rocklake, N.D. ....	12.48
Barfne, N.D. ....	12.48
Lansford, N.D. ....	12.87
Cardina, N.D. ....	12.87
Williston, N.D. ....	14.82
Grave, Mont. ....	22.81
Great Falls, Mont. ....	22.81
Billings, Mont. ....	21.84
Winnipeg, N.D. ....	15.52
Brandon, N.D. ....	12.09
Weyburn, N.D. ....	12.79
Regina, N.D. ....	16.31
Calgary, N.D. ....	22.03
Edmonton, N.D. ....	22.03

From Hamilton to--
Winnipeg .....	12.80
Brandon .....	14.80
Weyburn .....	17.40
Regina .....	17.50
Calgary .....	24.00
Edmonton .....	24.00

"I looked into the question and I found that the Canadian manufacturer,
speaking generally, is at a disadvantage compared with his American competitor so far as freight rates are concerned. The rates from Hami-ton to Winnipeg district, because the Northwest is divided into districts for the purpose of selling agricultural implements, are higher than rates from Chicago to points in which they are in competition with the manufacturers here. The Canadian manufacturer has two disadvantages. The first is that his cost of production is higher than the cost of production in Chicago or other American points, for the reason that as the House is aware, the cost of production is in inverse ratio to tonnage; the greater the tonnage, the lower the cost of production.

Cost of Production
"I do not wish to discuss this matter in a political way but rather in an economic or business way. The International Harvester Company has an establishment in Hamilton. The immense property in Canada of that company amounts to about $400,000. It has a very large plant in Chicago. We looked very carefully into the question of the cost of production at Hamilton and at Chicago and found a very substantial difference in favor of Chicago by reason of the greater tonnage turned out here. Speaking from recollection, the difference was either $7 or $9 upon an eight-foot binder.

"I sent a representative from my office to look into the factory cost in both places. In addition to that, as long ago as December, 1912, I asked the Commissioner of Customs to send a representative to the American manufacturers of agricultural implements and to those engaged in the business in the United States, and also to their agents along the border,
with a view to ascertaining as accurately as possible the difference in the selling price of agricultural implements on either side of the line.
That report was made. It contains a good deal of matter that is confidential, and necessarily so, because my agent was given access to the books and was treated in a very fair fashion by all the manufacturers. I have in my possession a report of the selling prices which might for a basis of comparison for points in Canada with points in the United States, where freight rates are not all equal.

Retail Price of Implements
There is an enormous amount of capital invested in the production of agricultural capital--in the manufacture of agricultural implements in Canada practically all the capital is in the West is concerned, there is a very difference in the price of agricultural implements on either side of the line.
The statement which I will give it committee, which is taken from my report by Mr. Nesbitt, is a resulted and, I believe, competi-
tional of the Customs Department, gives the following as comparative prices, cash on delivery, of eight-
foot binders:

United States:
Fargo .....	$12.50
Grand Forks .....	12.70
Valley City .....	13.00
Devils Lake .....	13.00
St. John .....	14.00
Minot .....	14.00
Gardina .....	14.00
Williston .....	14.00
Grave, Mont. ....	14.00
Great Falls .....	14.00
Billings .....	14.00
Winnipeg .....	14.00
Brandon .....	14.00
Weyburn .....	14.00
Regina .....	14.00
Calgary .....	14.00
Edmonton .....	14.00

The difference, therefore, would run from $10 down in favor of the price at the American points. The committee will bear in mind two things that I have mentioned. First that the Canadian manufacturer is at a disadvantage in respect of freight rates, which are higher from Toronto or Hamilton to the Canadian West than they are from Chicago. Second the cost of production in Hamilton, as shown by the returns of the International Harvester Company, are considerably higher than at other points in the United States. Bearing these two facts in mind, the committee will have one explanation at least for the fact that the cash price of agricultural implements is somewhat higher in the Canadian West than it is across the line.

"The comparative figures which I have given are in each case for an eight-foot binder; I understand that the Canadian machines at the prices which I have mentioned, carries an extra knife and certain other equipment valued at $7, which is not carried by the American binder. In answer to inquiries made, telegrams have been received from the following firms in North Dakota, stating the cash retail selling price of eight-foot binders: Lewis and Durocher, St.
John, $102; Atkins and Lea, Rock-
lake, $102; D. G. McIntosh, St.
Thomas, $102; Hender and McIntosh,
Saskatoon, $102.

Mr. McGill, the Liberal member for West Kent, brought out the fact that the eight-foot binders, on which prices were quoted at different points in Canada and the United States, had different attachments. He said that the Chicago firms for their American trade supplied binders with only one knife, whereas the Canadian manufacturer supplies an extra knife, the difference in value, in favor of the Canadian implement, being $7.00.

THE FLAX INDUSTRY

Enormous Hidden Asset--Efforts Made
to Secure Bounty For Canadian Flax

While the Government did not decide to grant a bounty to the flax industry at the present session, it has been inferred from certain quarters
from the tone of the Finance Minister's remarks on the question, that there is some probability that the Government will come to the assistance of this industry in the near future.

Hon. Mr. White, Minister of Finance, said in part: "There has been placed before us recently the question of the development in Canada of flax production. I think that the development of the industry of flax production would be of great advantage to certain parts of the country, and it is our intention to look fully into the matter and see whether . . .
reasonable bounty would have the effect of contributing to its development and development."

The West can demand bounty for the flax industry with some reason seeing that they have paid their share of the bounty on the flax, in the past, etc., for many years. No one in Western Canada would oppose a bounty on anything that would help build up a big industry in Western Canada.
